

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A light-emitting element is mounted in a cup-like portion formed on a substrate and a case. The cup-like portion is filled with a sealing member made of a light-transmissible resin. A layer made of a material having a refractive index lower than that of the sealing member is provided between the sealing member and a surface of the case.

10087925-030502